Report of Orientation Programme conducted by the Department of Mathematics and Economics (2022-2023)

Department of Mathematics and Economics, Khatra Adibasi Mahavidyalaya jointly organized an orientation programme for the newly admitted students of Mathematics department (both Honours and Programme) and Economics department (Programme) on 20th September 2022 at 11 A.M. at the Smart Classroom of the college.

The major objective of the programme was to make the students aware of the academic aspects of the course, the rules and regulations of the college and various facilities provided by the college.

At the onset the students were addressed by the principal of the college Dr. Nityananda Patra. The Principal welcomed the students to the institution and gave a brief account of the curricular and co-curricular activities of the college. He also mentioned that students should feel free to contact the Principal whenever they face any problem inside the college campus. Thereafter, IQAC Coordinator of the college, Dr. Arindam Chakrabarti addressed the students. He made the students aware about the various wings of the college such as Library, NSS, NCC, and their functioning. He encouraged students to actively participate in various student seminars organized in the college under the aegis of IQAC. He also urged them to take part in sports and cultural activities organized by the college every year. Thereafter, Assistant Professor and Head of the Department of Mathematics, Dr. Rima Barik addressed the students. She introduced other faculty members of the Mathematics Department Dr. Md. Asif Ikbāl, Sri Madhab Chandra Nandi and Sri Chandidas Gope to the students. She spoke about the history of Mathematics department of the college, discussed about the 3 years CBCS curriculum of Mathematics and assured the students that they will be provided any help that they require during their tenure in this college. Dr. Md. Asif Ikbāl, Assistant Professor, Department of Mathematics, discussed about the college ERP, how to log in to it and various ways by which students can get benefits from using college ERP such as obtaining study materials, submission of assignments and submission of college fees. Next, Dr. Kamalika Chakraborty, Assistant Professor and Head of the Department of Economics, Khatra Adibasi Mahavidyalaya addressed the students. She elaborated on the curriculum of Economics, books on Economics available in the college library and urged the students to attend classes regularly and freely ask questions to the teachers to clear their doubts. Queries of the students were next attended by the faculty members of both departments. Students of both departments were next taken for a tour of the college campus that included visit to the college library, college office, classrooms, common rooms, gymnasium etc.

The Orientation Programme was successful in providing insights into the institution's history, mission, values, and overall structure.

1. The celebration of International Consumer Rights Day every year, is a means of creating global awareness about consumer rights and needs.

2. Considering this day is a reminder to ensure that the rights of all consumers are respected and protected, and to protect against market abuses and unfair practices which undermine these rights.

3. World Consumer Rights Day was initiated by Monsieur Jules K. Boreddy, who sent a letter of proposal to the UN Secretary in 1977 March 1982, in which he strongly emphasized the need of consumer rights. It was then adopted by the UN.

4. The consumer movement has started from 1962 and has been growing ever since every year to celebrate the day on 15th March and 15th August.

Report on World Consumer Rights Day 2022

Khatra Adibasi Mahavidyalaya, Bankura

World Consumer Rights Day is celebrated every year on 15th March throughout the world as a means of raising global awareness about consumer rights and needs. On 15.03.2022 the Economics Department and the Commerce Department of our college, under the aegis of IQAC, organized a seminar to celebrate World Consumer Rights Day. This year the theme was 'Fair Digital Finance'. About 50 participants (including teachers and students) were present in the seminar. The programme began with the inaugural speech delivered by Dr. Nityananda Patra, Principal, Khatra Adibasi Mahavidyalaya. Dr. Kamalika Chakraborty, Assistant Professor of Economics and Shri Kalyan Kanti Dutta, Assistant Professor of Commerce spoke on important issues related to World Consumer Rights Day. Dr. Kamalika Chakraborty made a PowerPoint Presentation on the theme of World Consumer Rights Day 2022 i.e., 'Fair Digital Finance' before the students and explained the relevance of this theme in today's world. At the end of the presentation queries from the students were answered by the speaker.

Objectives

The main objectives of this seminar were:

- a) to draw the attention of the students to market malpractices, which undermine the rights of consumers and what more can be done to empower buyers
- b) to make students aware about the risks related to the use of digital financial services
- c) to aware students about the enhanced risks related to digital finance at the time of COVID 19 pandemic
- d) to discuss about the need for innovative regulatory approaches and digital financial services and products that give importance to consumer protection and empowerment.

Outcomes

The outcomes of this seminar were:

- a) Students learnt about the significance of World Consumer Rights Day
- b) They became aware about the various market malpractices that interfere with the rights of the consumers
- c) Students became conscious while using digital financial services such as internet and mobile banking, ATM, cards, e-wallet etc.

Introduction:- Unemployment in India remains a subject of concern since it was first recognised in 1950s. During that period, the Government of India had only few initiatives of employment generation until the First Five Year Plan was drafted in the year 1950 - 1951.

Current status of unemployment in India:-

According to separate quarterly figures prepared by the state run National Statistical Office (NSO) and released in November 2022, the unemployment rate decreased to 7.2% in the July - September quarter from 7.6% in the preceding quarter.

Although India's unemployment rate has historically been high, it is predicted to rise in the next year. In fact, even if the nation's economy continues to expand at a healthy clip, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) forecast that India's jobless rate will quadruple from 4 per cent to 8 percent by 2022.

From a 6% unemployment rate in 2017, India's unemployment rate would climb to 8.3% by 2022. According to the estimate, over the next four years, 10 million more people will join the ranks of the unemployed bringing the total to 220 million by 2022.

CMTF's Data on Unemployment Rate in India

The Center for Monitoring Indian Economy, a private organization (CMTF), estimates India's unemployment rate in India is around 8.3% at present. It is 10.09% in urban India whereas only 7.44% in rural India. India's daily and monthly unemployment rates are made public by CMTF on 1st January 2023.

Types of Unemployment in India

10 Types of unemployment in India

1. Disguised Unemployment.
2. Cyclical unemployment.
3. Open unemployment.
4. Seasonal unemployment.
5. Educated unemployment.
6. Structural unemployment.
7. Casual unemployment.
8. Frictional unemployment.
9. Chronic unemployment.
10. Technological unemployment.

1. Disguised Unemployment :-

Disguised unemployment is defined as the situation in which employees are doing more work than is necessary. Hence, if someone leaves then production remains affected due to the extra or surplus workforce. Additionally, the productivity remains at a marginal zero due to the high number of workers. Disguised unemployment is found in the field of agriculture due to overcrowding caused by lack of alternative job opportunities and fast population growth.

2. Cyclical Unemployment:-

Cyclical Unemployment is caused due to trade cycles at frequent intervals. Generally, capitalist economies are more likely to be subjected to trade cycle.

3. Open Unemployment:-

This is probably the biggest type of unemployment prevalent in India. Open unemployment is when a huge section of people belonging to the workforce do not have jobs that might yield them a monthly income. The major reason for open unemployment is that the labour force expands at a much rapid speed than the economic growth rate.

4. Seasonal Unemployment:-

As the name suggests, seasonal unemployment is prevalent during specific seasons of a year. For example, in industries like the factories, holiday resorts, agriculture etc. production happens on a temporary and seasonal basis. Hence, employment is also offered for a limited period. The rest of the year also known as off-season, employees remain unemployed.

5. Educated Unemployment:-

Apart from open unemployment, many educated people tend to remain unemployed due to their educational qualifications not matching the available job profiles.

6. Structural Unemployment:-

When a country undergoes a drastic change in its economic structure, it leads to structural unemployment. These changes normally have an effect on the demand or supply of a production factor. In other words, structural unemployment is a result of technological advancement and economic development happening all over the world, in every field.

7. Casual Unemployment:-

If a person works on a day to day basis, casual unemployment happens due to reasons like ownership change, fall in demand, scarcity of raw materials, short-term contracts etc.

8. Frictional Unemployment:-

Discrepancies between the demand for labour and supply for labour can sometimes lead to frictional unemployment. Frictional unemployment is caused by reasons like seasonal employment, a dearth of timely and accurate information, immobility of labour,

9. Chronic Unemployment:-

When unemployment becomes a near permanent or a long term component of a country, it is known as chronic unemployment. Chronic unemployment is a result of factors such as unsatisfactory economic development due to large-scale poverty and swift population growth.

10. Technological Unemployment:-

Technological unemployment occurs due to specific modifications in production techniques, which might not require a lot of manual labour. These days, modern technology has surpassed the need for and importance of manual labour resulting in technological unemployment.

Causes of unemployment in India:-

The Caste System:- The caste system, a structure of social stratification that can potentially pervade virtually every aspect of life in India is a major factor in generating unemployment.

Inadequate Economic Growth:- Indian economy is underdeveloped and rate of economic growth is inadequate. This slow growth fails to provide enough unemployment opportunities to the increasing population.

Increase in population:- India's population is predicted to exceed China's by the year 2024; it will, furthermore, probably be the most populous country for the entirety of the 21st century.

Agriculture is a Seasonal Occupation:- Agriculture offers unemployment for a large segment of the population but only for several months out of the year.

Conclusion :-

- 1. If the problem of unemployment is solved it will help in development of the country.
- 2. With population of hundred and twenty one crores of people our country's unemployment rate is increasing day by day.
- 3. The problem of unemployment is rising but still many industries are facing the problem of skilled candidate for their company.
- 4. There is a growth of software companies outsourcing companies in India, but still the country has a high numbers of unemployed individuals.
